August 6, 2021

Greetings!

It is with great pleasure that we issue the official call for the 21st Biennial Convention of the Coalition of Labor Union Women. This year's event will be online, October 7-9, 2021. The theme for the convention is A Vision! A Vote! A Victory!

To participate in the convention with voice and vote you need to be a regular national CLUW member in good standing by August 23, 2021. Delegates to the convention will be considering resolutions and constitutional amendments that will set the future direction for CLUW.

In 2020 we made history when Kamala Harris broke a glass ceiling and was elected Vice President of the United States. Our theme, a vision, a vote and a victory embodies our plan to break more glass ceilings. We will work to move more women into leadership positions of power in our government, in our communities and in our unions. We are still SNAP — sisters/siblings not afraid of power!

Throughout the COVID 19 pandemic, you worked hard to hold on to the American dream while holding down full time essential work and taking care of family members. We will honor and celebrate your accomplishments at the 2021 Convention.

Unlike past conventions, this event will focus on taking care of our organizational work first and foremost. We are asking all general committees to meet in advance of the convention and be prepared to report back goals and objectives. Elections will be held for union delegates as well as election of members to the National Officers Council. In between work sessions we still plan to have fun so be ready for a few surprises!

Please note: Observers and Associate Members are welcome to attend the convention. They are required to pay the appropriate registration fee, but are not eligible to have a voice or a vote during the convention.

Join us for the 2021 online Biennial Convention and help our organization grow and become stronger for the work ahead of us. Dynamic women leaders from around the country will also join us online to bring us their vision and victories for women workers!

Our ultimate goal is to inspire and empower our delegates, our members and our guests!

Peace, love and solidarity forever,

In Solidarity,
Bennie R. Bridges
